DISCERNMENT AND DIET

Jesaya 7:15 (NKJV)

Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good.

Did you know your diet determines discernment? Jesaya prophesied Jesus' diet, "butter and honey", was training for discernment: "that He may know (yada': experiential knowing) to refuse evil and choose good." The world says, "You are what you eat." Biblically, you know as you eat. What you consistently consume, scripture, counsel, media, habits, sharpens or dulls your spiritual reflexes. Even in the physical, diet shapes capacity. In the spirit, feeding on God's Word tunes your instincts so that rejecting evil and choosing good becomes automatic.

Curate your intake. Fill your day with "butter and honey" for the spirit: the Word, worship, wise voices. Starve inputs that fog your judgment. Before decisions, "taste" the text by reading, meditating, and confessing the Word. Let your menu form your morals and allow your appetite to train your discernment.

PROPHETIC DECLARATION

I feed on the Word, and my senses are trained. I know to refuse evil and choose good. My appetites align with Heaven; my judgment is sharp, and my steps are sure, in Jesus' Name. Amen.

GUARDING AGAINST GOSSIP

Omayeletumbulo 18:8 (MSG)

Listening to gossip is like eating cheap candy; do you really want junk like that in your belly?

Gossip drains power! God doesn't anoint anyone to stop gossip, He tells the Church to remove it. Gossipers corrode trust, scatter focus, and dismantle what God is building.

Words are weapons. In the wrong mouths they become shrapnel! Refuse to be a distribution channel for "cheap candy." If someone keeps feeding you "scoops," they're not your friend; they're recruiting your ears.

Here's how to guard your spirit this year;

Retreat: Step back from repeat offenders. Proximity is permission.

Redirect: "Let's pray for them instead." If the story can't survive prayer, it shouldn't be told.

Refuse: "I'm not the person to discuss this with." Close the door kindly but firmly.

Replace: Fill your mouth with intercession, scripture, and solutions. Build what the enemy tries to break.

PROPHETIC DECLARATION

I separate from gossip and those who spread it. My ears are gates of truth, my mouth builds, heals, and blesses. I speak life, shut down strife, and protect the unity of God's house, in Jesus' Name!
